

Snowmobiling's Wallace Kenny Award Winner – Vernon Seeley

Vernon Seeley is the New Brunswick Federation of Snowmobile Club's (NBFSC) 2014 winner of the Annual Wallace Kenny Award. Vernon received his award at the NBFSC's 2014 AGM held in Miramichi in May 2014. His award was announced to club delegates, as a surprise, by NBFSC President Sandy Young and presented to him by Clayton Kenny, son of the late Wallace Kenny.

Vernon continues to be a passionate snowmobiler logging thousands of kilometers every season. Vernon was one of the key founders of the Fundy Trail Riders Snowmobile Club, the member club of the NBFSC that represents Saint John and many areas of the neighboring Kennebecasis Valley. Vernon has always been a volunteer. He was an instrumental contributor to the multiple NBFSC's Snow Trek Rides that circumvented the province in the 1990's often followed by an Irving Oil tanker.

Most recently Vernon saw an opportunity for the Province's Fundy Trail Parkway, to become a four-season tourism destination, With Vernon' steady persistence, passion and dedication he worked with the NBFSC, local elected members, his Fundy Trail Riders SC and the Parkway's authority to see a new snowmobile trail become opened for 2014 on the Fundy Trail Parkway, a major achievement.

Wallace Kenny, whose name bears the NBFSC's Wallace Kenny Award was also a dedicated volunteer and passionate about snowmobiling. His contributions to his home club in Neguac and at the NBFSC still bear his efforts today. The annual Wallace Kenny Award is to honor and recognize those individuals who contribute their efforts to a very special project, achievement or contribution that enhances organized snowmobiling.
