From The Intrepid Snowmobiler

This handy snowmobile products review highlights four items you can use that have made my life easier on snowmobile tours and snowmobile vacations – and they should work well for you too – and be sure to check out my list of Best Snowmobile Products too!

Handy Snowmobile Products Review – Magic Eraser

I like a brightly coloured sled, but the downside is that any surface that's not black quickly shows exhaust, belt and scuff marks. Keeping my snowmobile looking like new used to be a chore until I discovered Mr. Clean® Magic Eraser® Extra Power. A Magic Eraser feels like a chunk of air foam, which transforms into a super cleaner when activated by water. Now with very little effort, I can keep my sled factory-fresh. Available at most stores that sell household cleaning supplies and online.

Handy Snowmobile Products Review – Toilet Tissue To Go

Okay, so maybe we don't want to talk much about getting caught short on the trail or arriving with legs crossed at an outhouse that has no toilet paper. So let's whisper this...you should always ride prepared and the handiest way is by carrying Toilet Tissue To Go. It comes in several other brand names too, all of which come in a handy, travel size, dispenser that keeps the tissue clean, neat and dry until needed. Available at many drug and outdoor stores including Shopper's, just saying...

Review – Clif Bars

Ever had that weary feeling in the mid-afternoon with many more kilometres to go before being able to park your sled for the day? The best pick me up I've found is a Clif Bar. Available in more than 10 flavours and conveniently packaged in an easy open packet, these wholesome ingredient bars are 70% organic sports nutrition. But what I care about is how quickly one can recharge my depleting energy level – and the answer is fast and long lasting. That's why I always have several Clif bars packed in my touring gear...handy just in case I ever have to spend an unexpected night on the trail! Available at many drug and outdoors stores including Shopper's.

Handy Snowmobile Products Review – Warm Skin

Even the most macho riders can suffer from cracked, dry skin or mild frostbite on snowmobile tours or snowmobile vacations. That's why NFL players, mountain climbers, ski patrollers, letter carriers and even polar explorers protect their flesh with Warm Skin®. Warm Skin All Weather Guard is a heavy-duty, non-greasy barrier cream and moisturizer from a Minnesota based company called Aurora Naturally.

Another very handy snowmobile product is duct tape, so check out my duct tape post for its many uses!
